All products are not created equal. This is certainly true when creating high purity air-&-gas cartridges. Let me ask you, would you trust an airplane manufacturer to pack your parachute?

Of course not!
You want someone with parachute expertise. And that's why you should trust L-Factor to pack yours.

Bottom line

These aren't just tubes filled with "stuff". There is a great deal of science & engineering that goes into developing, creating, and ensuring a correct combination of features ...features such as shell material, sorbent materials & preservation, joining methods, sanitizing, longevity, shelf life, and reliability to perform the functions it's meant for.

High pressure jobs sometimes depend on high-pressure air & gas. For instance; a deep sea diver plunging into ocean depths toting a capsule of air or a transit-driver at the helm of a bus fueled by a tank of natural gas
